

Thanks for choosing one of my Scouting-related downloads. Having been involved in Scouting on various levels for over 35 years, I am convinced of the educational value of Scouting activities, which just happen to be wrapped up in a fun package.

For homeschoolers, or teachers who might be interested in utilizing Boy Scout Merit Badges in your classes – either as the main topic, or as a supplement or extra credit opportunity – here are some information sources.

The most up-to-date website for all Boy Scout Merit Badge Requirements is:

<http://boyslife.org/about-scouts/merit-badge-requirements/>

Many volunteers have helped develop a set of Merit Badge worksheets – these have all the requirements in one file, with space to fill in answers. These can be found in various places around the web, including:

http://meritbadge.org/wiki/index.php/Merit_Badge_Worksheets

(do check that the requirements match the current posting at Boyslife.org!)

However, not every youth has a learning style that matches with these longer, primarily text-based worksheets. Therefore, I'm developing numerous focused worksheets & graphic organizers. This works best for those students that get overwhelmed by too many requirements, and helps the teacher use just the right download for their class syllabus.

I would greatly appreciate if you rate my products, but I understand if you just grab it and go – teachers & youth leaders are busy people, and don't always have time to go back to leave feedback. If you have any suggestions for improvements, please contact me via the TpT website:

If you have any questions about how to integrate Boy Scout content into traditional subjects, or are looking for standards based connections, please contact me and we can discuss it in detail.

Thanks - TeachingScouter
